1	PROCEEDINGS,
2	THE COURT: Court is called to order.
3	Major. Major Fein, account for the parties.
4	MR. FEIN: Your Honor, all parties in the
5	court when court last recessed are present.
6	Also, as of 09:30, 15 members in media
7	operation center, one stenographer, one member of the
8	media in the courtroom, 22 spectators in the courtroom
9	and no spectators in the overflow trailer but it's
10	available.
11	THE COURT: PFC Manning, we are now going
12	to enter into the sentencing phase of the trial where
13	you have the right to present matters of extenuation in
14	mitigation. That is, matters about the offenses or 15	yourself that you want me to consider in deciding your
16	sentence. In addition to the testimony of the 17	witnesses and offering of documentary evidence, you,
18	yourself, may testify under oath as to these matters or
19	you may remain silent, in which case I will draw no
20	adverse inferences from your silence.
21	On the other hand, if you desire you may make an unsworn statement. Because the statement is unsworn, you cannot be cross-examined on it.

2
3
                However, the Government may offer evidence to rebut any statement of fact in your unsworn 4 statement. An unsworn statement may be made orally, in writing, or both. It may be made by you, your counsel 7
6
    on your behalf, or both.
                Do you understand these rights?
9
                PFC MANNING: Yes, Your Honor.
10
                THE COURT: Is the personal data on the 11 charge sheet accurate?
                MR. FEIN: Yes, Your Honor, it was amended
13
    as of this morning.
14
                THE COURT: The amendment was by virtue of 15
    a Xerox copy of the charge sheet.
16
                MR. FEIN: It was, Your Honor. And a copy of the Xerox or the Xerox itself is with the court
18
    reporter with all the amendments made to this point.
19
                THE COURT: That would be basic change to $2,014.80?
21
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am, the date imposed
```

MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.

```
MR. COOMBS: Yes, Your Honor.
2
                THE COURT: Do we have anything to address 3 before we proceed with the Government's case.
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.
4 Other administrative matters, Your Honor, the Garrison 5 Commander Bar was a document that the Court asked to be marked was marked. It is marked as Appellate Exhibit 622.
7
9
                The Court's ruling on the RCM641 -- 10
                THE COURT: It's already been marked as 11 Appellate Exhibit 622. Can't we just put it in with 12
    the remaining documents with the Appellate Exhibit 620?
13
                MR. FEIN: We could, Your Honor, except 14
    it's been marked in separate filings.
15
                THE COURT: Okay.
                MR. FEIN: Also, Your Honor, the Court's ruling for the RCM 641 motion, the motion to dismiss, 18
17
    that's been marked as Appellate Exhibit 623.
19
                The Court's verdict is marked as Appellate Exhibit 624.
21
                The defense's motion to merge

Specifications 5 and 7 for findings dated 30 July 2013 has been marked as Appellate Exhibit 626.

Defense motion to merge Specifications 4 and 6 for findings dated 30 July 2013 has been marked as Appellate Exhibit 627.

And the defense's motion to merge as unreasonable multiplication for charges for sentences dated 30 July 2013 is marked as Appellate Exhibit 628.

THE COURT: All right. I was in chambers with counsel earlier in a RCM 802 conference, that's a conference where I discuss scheduling and issues that are going to arise in cases.

The defense had given me a copy of the three motions they had filed. The Government has asked until Friday to respond. So I have granted the Government the two days to respond and I will have a ruling on that early next week.

Does the defense desire oral argument with respect to those motions?

MR. COOMBS: Not at the time, Your Honor.

When we receive the Government's response we can alert

the Court if we need oral argument.
2
                THE COURT: Let me know.
3
                MR. COOMBS: Yes, Your Honor.
                THE COURT: And, Government, same thing.
4
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.
5
                THE COURT:
                            Is there anything else we need
7
    to address at this time before we proceed with the Government's case?
9
                MR. FEIN: No, ma'am. But prior to calling the first witness, we would ask for a 10 minute recess.
10
                THE COURT: All right. Court is in recess 11 until 5 minutes after 10:00.
12
                (Court in recess.)
                THE COURT: Court is called to order.
15
    the record reflect all parties present when the court last recessed are again present in court.
17
                Before the Government starts the case I 18 neglected to ask the parties what they believe the maximum punishment is based upon the verdict yesterday.
20
                MR. FEIN: Your Honor, the maximum 21 punishment based on verdict is 136 years confinement.

THE COURT: Concurrent. (Inaudible.)
2
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.
                Your Honor, 136 years maximum confinement to be reduced to the rank of Private E-1 and to be dishonorably discharged from the United States Army.
6
                THE COURT: Is there a forfeiture penalty?
7
                MR. FEIN: Total forfeiture pay allowances.
                THE COURT: Government interested in a fine?
10
                MR. FEIN: Yes, as originally stated.
11
                THE COURT: Does the Defense agree?
12
                MR. COOMBS: Defense agrees the maximum 13 punishment, but would argue the fine.
14
                THE COURT: The Court agrees as well the 15
    maximum authorized punishment in this case, understanding we have the Defense motions for unreasonable multiplication of charges.
18 For sentencing as it currently stands the grade of Private E-1, total forfeiture of all pay and
20 allowances, 136 years of confinement and dishonorable 21 discharge and the Government has requested refund.

Anything else we need to address before we proceed?
3
                MR. FEIN: No, ma'am.
4
                MR. COOMBS: No, ma'am.
                THE COURT: Government, call your first
    witness.
7
                MR. FEIN: Your Honor, United States calls
    Brigadier General Robert Carr.
9
                 Sir, please stand and face me.
10
                Please raise your right hand.
11 Whereupon,
                BRIGADIER GENERAL ROBERT CARR,
13 called as a witness, having been first duly sworn to 14 tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the 15
    truth, was examined and testified as follows:
                DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FEIN:
17
                Sir, you are Brigadier General Robert Carr 18
    United States Army retired?
                I am.
20
                Sir, before we continue, I'd like to remind Q
21
    you this is an unclassified open session. If any
```

- questions that the United States, the Defense or Court asks you that elicits classified information please notify the Court prior to answering.
- Sir, what is your current position in your retired status?
 - A I am an employee of the Northrop Grumman Corporation. I work on the corporate staff and I'm their corporate lead executive representing them at Ft. Meade, Aberdeen and the community.
- 10 Q Sir, when did you retire from active duty?
- A My last day was, I think I signed out on about 5 July 2011.
 - Q And, sir, you are aware that you are here today to discuss your expertise in the DoD intelligence operations and intelligence sharing with the United States Government, with coalition partners and foreign partners?
- 18 A I am.

13

14

15

17

Q And, sir, in that capacity will you be able to, once we get through this, assuming the Court allows it, to give an opinion on the impact of PFC Manning's criminal conduct on the Department of Defense and intelligence operations?

                I will.
         Α
                And also an opinion, sir, on the impact to 4 information sharing within the United States Government 5 and with foreign nations, foreign partners and 6 coalition forces?
7
                I will.
         Α
8
                Thank you, sir.
10
                THE COURT: What is the, say it very 11 slowly, scope of expertise that you are looking to qualify this witness for?
13
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am. Your Honor, United 14 States intends to qualify General Carr as an expert in 15
    DoD intelligence operations.
16
                THE COURT: All right.
17
                MR. FEIN: And intelligence sharing with 18 the United States Government -- 19
                THE COURT: All right.
20
                MR. FEIN: -- with foreign partners and coalition forces.

```
THE COURT: All right. Proceed.
2
                Sir, prior to your retirement, what was 3
    your last job in the United States Army?
         Α
                I was the director of the Defense
4 Counterintelligence and HUMINT Center for the defense
    intelligence agency.
         0
                And how long were you in that position, sir?
8
         Α
                From September of '09 until my retirement in July '11.
10
11 General, sir, what were your 12 responsibilities as the director of the defense 13 counterintelligence HUMINT center for DI?
14
         Α
                So I oversaw the defense covert program.
15 was the director of the defense attaché system.
    defense HUMINT operations on behalf of the Defense
17 Intelligence Agency as well as a number of 18 counterintelligence operations that were run within the Defense Intelligence Agency and then provided that
20 leadership to the senior DoD person working HUMINT CI 21 across the community.

1	Q Sir, in that position as the director of
2	the DCHC, who did you report to, sir?
3	A I reported to General Burgess.
4	Q Who is General Burgess?
5	A Director of the Defense Intelligence
6	Agency.
7	Q Who did he report to as the director of
8	DIA, sir?
9	A I believe he reported to the Under
10	Secretary of Defense for Intelligence and then the Sec.
11	Def.
12	Q And, sir, what was your position at the
13	time of the WikiLeaks releases in the summer of 2010?
14	A I was the director of the Defense
15	Counterintelligence and HUMINT Center.
16	Q And, sir, when you retired, what was your
17	military rank?
18	A Brigadier general.
19	Q What was your branch in the United States
20	Army?
21	A My entire career was in the military

1 intelligence branch.

8

- Q And, sir, how long did you spend on active duty in the Army in the military intelligence office?
- A 31 years and a couple months.
 - Q What I'd like to do now is talk about your career somewhat briefly. But starting with your first duty position, sir, what was your first duty position as a military intelligence officer?
- A S2 of a combat engineer battalion.
- 10 Q And then what was your next job, sir?
- 11 A Special security officer running SCIFs on 12 behalf of intelligence in the security command.
- Q And then about what year was that, sir, that you were a SSO?
- 15 A 1984/'85.
- 16 Q What about your next job, sir?
- 17 A I then went to, for about four plus years
 18 to the second army division forward in Germany where I 19 was assistant brigade to secretary of general staff of 20 the CG and commanded a combat electronic warfare intel

21 company.

Sir, was that your company command as the 1 Q 2 military intelligence officer? 3 Α That was one of a couple commands, yes. What was your next command, sir, as a 4 Q military intelligence officer? 5 I commanded the Army ground detachment for 6 7 the joint stars effort in Desert Storm. In general, what did that consist of, sir, 8 at least what were you responsible for as the battalion 10 commander? That was another detachment command. 11 12 responsible for about 45 young soldiers that took the 13 joint star system out of the acquisition process and put it to use in Desert Storm. First time it ever went 14 15 to the battlefield. And, sir, what's your next command after 16 17 that detachment command? 18 Α It was a battalion command, I commanded a SigInt battalion at Ft. Gordon, Georgia. 19 20 What were the general responsibilities of Q 21 that battalion you commanded?

Oversaw about 400 plus young SigInt 1 2 soldiers who worked inside what was known as the Gordon 3 Regional Security Operations Center now known as NSA Georgia. 4 What do you remember, sir, about the 400 5 0 6 SigInt soldiers? What type of soldiers were they? Soldiers that were working in the signals 7 intelligence business. So they would receive 8 information, intel collection and, you know, provide reports out to the force. 10 11 Sir, before continuing, when you were the 12 detachment commander of the joint stars program, was 13 that in support of a military operation? 14 Α It was. It was in support of Desert Shield 15 and Desert Storm. Were you deployed at that time? 16 Q 17 I was deployed into Saudi Arabia and I had 18 all around the country. Sir, what position did you hold after your 19 Q battalion command at Ft. Gordon? 20 I went to INSCOM headquarters where I was 21 Α

the assistant G3 for information operation. 1 2 Sir, before we continue with that job, what 3 is, in a brief summary, what is INSCOM? Α INSCOM is the major command for the U.S. 4 Army that oversees intelligence operations. 5 6 Sir, does INSCOM have a worldwide presence? It has a -- about 10 to 12,000 plus 7 personnel spread out in 13 commands positioned globally 8 and in nearly every theater of operation and war zone. Sir, how do they support war fighting 10 Q 11 combatant commanders? INSCOM's job is not only to produce 12 13 intelligence and push it down to the tactical force but it's to provide that integration with the national 14 15 intel agencies to facilitate that flow of information that's needed for the battlefield. 16 17 One moment, please. 18 Sir, as the deputy G3 at INSCOM what were 19 your general responsibilities at that time? 20 At that time it was 2000/2001, my primary Α 21 duty was to help the U.S. Army and INSCOM move forward in the information operations business at that stage 1 2 and I was the combat developer for computer network 3 attack capabilities. Sir, after your time as the INSCOM WJ3, 4 Q excuse me, what job did you hold after that? 5 6 Α I went to U.S. Army War College at Carlyle 7 Barracks. 0 Did you have a thesis of any type? 8 Α I did. I think, I think it was on something to do with security assistance work. 10 11 0 Where did you go after the War College, sir? 12 13 I deployed to Bosnia where I was the J2 or senior intel officer of the stabilization force NATO in 14 15 Bosnia, as well as the J2 for the US team there in Bosnia overseeing the US National Intel Center and I 16 was the chief of staff of the Joint Interagency Task 17 18 Force for counterterrorism there in Bosnia. 19 All those, those three hats you wore at the 20 same time? 21 Α Simultaneous, exactly.

1	Q Were you the senior intel DoD official at
2	the time in Bosnia?
3	A Absolutely.
4	Q What were your general responsibilities as
5	senior intel official in Bosnia at that time, sir?
6	A To oversee the NATO intelligence structure,
7	to provide analytical reports to the command, to work
8	the tasking associated with the assets, the intel
9	collection assets, to place demands on the US system so
10	that the intel flow from the US system would make its
11	way into NATO and support all of us there in Bosnia.
12	It was a general role as a senior
13	intelligence officer of a command engaged in an
14	operation or a mission.
15	Q So, sir, in reference to what the United
16	States intends to offer for your expertise, what
17	experience did you receive as the J2 in Bosnia at the
18	time with information sharing among foreign partners?
19	A A huge responsibility.
20	In that time and at that point the
21	predominant producer of intel in that environment was the United States military. And it was critical that 1 we create the processes, the means to both protect our 2 3 sources and our capabilities and at the same time ensure that we push the information legitimate, 4 legally, and correctly into the NATO channels so that 5 6 we could have a seamless understanding of the battlefield across all the various nations that were 7 working in that environment. 8 So to the best of your memory, sir, I know Q it's been a few years and, of course, in a classified 10 11 manner, about how many different foreign partners were 12 you dealing with on a daily or weekly basis? estimate, sir? 13 14 Α On a daily or weekly basis at least 20, you 15 know, in a series of a month it might be more than 20, but. 16 17 When conducting operations with them, how 18 did that include information sharing or intelligence 19 sharing? 20 Well, it, you know, it included, it Α included making sure that as much of the US information that was available found its way into the correct process flow to migrate into the NATO networks.

And, sir, what about your experience to

- Q And, sir, what about your experience then with coalition forces, is that similar?
- A It is similar. Obviously a coalition environment might not have the maturity of rules and processes that a NATO environment has and we built over time.
- So, you know, a lot more has to come with experience and understanding knowledge and just practical application as to how to make things work in that type of environment.
- Q And, sir, after your time as the J2 in Bosnia, what was your next assignment?
- A I returned to the United States for brigade command. I commanded a brigade in the INSCOM command and this particular brigade was overseeing the joint operation at the Gordon Regional Security Operations Center, which is a signals intelligence organization now known as NSA George.
- Q Sir, how do you distinguish, other than

- what is battalion and brigade command, your 1 2 responsibilities as battalion commander for a certain 3 battalion and coming back to Ft. Gordon as the brigade commander for an entire brigade? 4 Significance difference. Size and scope 5 Α 6 and magnitude being one. You move from 400 soldiers to about 2,200, Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine and 7 civilians that are working. 8 9 The second thing is I had a much bigger The Army piece of that operation was very, 10 operation. somewhat small, 50, 60 folks and as a battalion 11 12 commander. As a brigade commander I had to oversee the 13 entire operation of that regional center. And that 14 regional center was to take, you know, operational and 15 national level intelligence and push it out to the war fight. 16
 - In this case during that time 2003/2005 we were engaged in supporting both Iraq and Afghanistan operations directly from there.

Q And by support, sir, just generically, what do you mean?

By support meaning that we were responding 1 2 to the priorities and the requirements and the needs of 3 the tactical commanders on the ground and that we were executing that collection and turning it into 4 information of value that could be used by forces. 5 6 Sir, after your time as brigade commander 7 of the Gordon facility, where did you go after that? Α I was then assigned as the assistant J2 for 8 the Joint Chief of Staff. 10 And what were your general duties there, Q sir, as the assistant J2 on the Joint Staff? 11 Oversaw a number of areas for the J2 to 12 13 keep the organization running. Certainly reviewed and 14 validated everything that was heading into the J2. 15 was the J2 representative to the morning brief to the 16 J3 every morning in the National Military Command 17 Center. 18 I was the primary interface to Congress for the J2 and the various intel committees. 19 20 And then represented the J2 in his absence. 21 There were other duties in there I think, you know what, always work in processes in terms of information sharing with coalitions and of course those things have certain processes that you work through the interagency and things.

I certainly was the person that represented the J2 on a number of those things and I participated in detainee review processes, the J2 representative there.

Q So, sir, just taking a few of those one at a time.

What was your specific role as the deputy

J2 on the Joint Staff as information sharing, first start within the United States Government?

A Well, I think basically to be able to help the J2s. The Joint Staff sits, you know, in a place between the 10 combatant commands and the Secretary of Defense and so the J2s of these various commands had that responsibility to work the intelligence operation mechanisms in their particular command.

If they struggled with, you know, needing additional authorities or needing more coordination

- between the national level then the Joint Staff would step in there and attempt to work that and negotiate that between intel agencies at the national level and so we get the best support and best information down to the commanders and our service members.
- Q And, sir, in that capacity what about information sharing between the United States Government and foreign partners?

- A Certainly we worked a number of those processes as we matured in both theaters at the time of Afghanistan and Iraq.
- There were some number of processes ongoing to mature our ability to be able to share with the coalition of the day and those coalitions changed over time and we wanted to make sure that that info sharing continued as that coalition grew.
- Q So in reference to coalition, sir, what is at least the difference, if any, between foreign partner information sharing and coalition forces information sharing?
- 21 A Yes. I think the difference would be, you know, a coalition is a team that comes together from a number of nations to go after -- they agree to go after or work together to solve a particular problem. That coalition has folks that move in and out of that coalition. It often is not something that necessarily may stay together when that problem set is gone.

And so, you know, you've got to understand the business, you've got to be nimble, you've got to have some experience, and you've got to work through what often is a new challenge constantly because this coalition might not have the 50 years of experience that NATO might bring in terms of an information sharing arrangement.

In relationship with a foreign partner is a little different in my mind in the sense that you're looking for more of a long-term relationship between either military-to-military, be it the US to the German military, or the UK military and that kind of stuff where there's enduring relationships and you've created a long-term partnership that's in the best interest of the two nations. And those foreign partnerships then extend to the national level as well.

So you might have a national agency inside the United States that creates a relationship with a national agency of a foreign nation.

So there's my distinction between a foreign partner and what would be coalition operation.

Q Sir, as the deputy J2 of the Joint Staff, how did you oversee and I guess operate within the DoD intelligence operations field?

A Well certainly the J2 has the responsibility to be able to, first of all, J2 is the senior intel officer for the chairman. So he's responsible for informing the chairman of the intelligence picture.

The J2 also has the responsibility to the chairman as well as to the Secretary to Defense and Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence, that those resources that the nation has given to the services and to the Department of Defense to conduct intelligence are, you know, being used properly, being used effectively and being managed in a way that brings out the results that we need. 1 2 And, sir, after your time as the deputy J2 3 of the Joint Staff, where was your next assignment? At that point I was selected for brigadier 4 Α general and I took my first assignment as a general. 5 was the senior intelligence officer J2 at the European 6 7 Command in Germany. Sir, is this the United States Army 8 0 European Command or the combatant? 10 Α This is the Combatant Command, the United 11 States European Command. What were your general responsibilities 12 13 there as the J2 for EUCOM? 14 Α So all of those responsibilities inherently 15 come with being a senior intelligence officer for a 16 four-star general. 17 There was approximate work force of about a 18 thousand military personnel and civilians that operated underneath the J2. It's a very mature theater, both in 19 terms of information access as well as dissemination. 20 21 Then we, at the time, the Africa command had not been created so we had Department of Defense intel responsibilities for about 90 plus countries throughout Europe and Africa.

- Q And, sir, in that capacity as the J2 of EUCOM, what was your experience of information sharing within the United States Government?
- A So a number of areas. In particular you're always concerned with force protection and whether you have a number of forces that were down on the African environment training and educating and building relationships, partnerships down in that environment.
- You were always wanting to make sure that you had full awareness of any threats that might exist. So you had to work within the many other arms of the U.S. Government to ensure that information flow was getting into the proper channels to support those troops.
- You, at this time, there was certainly a number of concerns that were force protection threats within the environment and Europe and one of the big ones was the IJU case in Germany where the Islamic Jihad Union was threatening to go after ram sight (phonetic) and that particular case was solved during my venture there and it was an incredible information sharing environment between the foreign governments, being the German Government, the US FBI, and other intel agencies that needed to come together and cooperate so that we could protect US families and service members from this particular threat that was developing there in Germany.

Q So, sir, a moment ago you mentioned or testified about information flow down to the supporting troops in Africa, what do you mean by that, sir?

A Well, what I mean is that, you know, if an intel system picks up a threat or a force protection concern about a particular location or a particular individual or a particular unit that may be operating somewhere, it's incumbent upon senior intel officers to put the processes in place so that the data can move to the commander that can make the right decision to take protective steps and mitigate the risk, at the same time attempt to continue to accomplish his mission.

Q Sir, so that's information sharing within the U.S. Government. It sounds like you also, if you agree, testified about information sharing with foreign partners with your example?

A That was one example.

Another example was when Chad almost crumbled in the -- I can't remember whether it was 2007 or 2008 timeframe, but Chad almost crumbled and we had American citizens in that country. We had a lot of French citizens, French had a lot of responsibilities.

And we had to go to some extraordinary measures to create the right information sharing environment with the French Government so that we both had a common understanding of what was going on and this small number of personnel that were on the ground could reach support and protect each other. That was actually quite an information sharing success.

We worked with the French, with the European Command, as well as other NATO partners to, to ensure that intel and that information was well-shared.

Q Sir, after your time as a J2 of EUCOM what was your next duty assignment as a flag officer? 1 I was then sent to Kabul, Afghanistan where 2 3 I was dual-hatted as the ISAF J2, the NATO command there as well as the US forces Afghanistan J2. 4 What were your general responsibilities 5 0 versus the ISAF NATO J2? 6 Again, you're the senior intel officer for 7 the four-star commander there so you have all of those 8 responsibilities to ensure the intel system is working and ensure it's focused on the property priorities and 10 the requirements of the command. 11 12 You have great responsibility in 13 orchestrating the collection, overseeing the analytical 14 products and to make sure, especially in a war zone, to 15 make sure that the information flow is getting down to 16 the commanders on the ground that need that information. 17

In this case it was also trying to blend the NATO and the US networks to the fullest extent possible and at the same time to bring in those coalition partners because in addition to the NATO team that was in Afghanistan there were a number of other countries that were not necessarily NATO that wanted to join us in that particular effort. And then during my time there and the folks that followed me certainly we had worked incredibly hard to broaden that coalition and that information sharing with our Afghan partners who ultimately need that support so we can get out of it.

Q Sir, you used two terms. If you could just define for the Court, when you say intel system, what do you mean, sir, as the senior intel officer overseeing the intel system?

A Yes. We define that whole thing as intel operations and so you want to have the confidence that the entirety of the intel operation is operating effectively.

I think because the intel operation is a series of practices and procedures and IT networks and there's just, there's all kinds of systems in there. I think system is my way of just describing all of the connections that take place as you work through intel information systems.

1 processes.

- Q Sir, when you talk about intel processes and connections, are you talking strictly computer networks or are you talking about also human
- 5 interaction, could you explain that some more?
 - A Yeah, in my mind I'm talking about, you know, the human interaction that's necessary, the daily meetings and briefings that need to take place, the various forums where you bring people together to communicate and reach conclusions and then you have to talk about the massive amount of networks and
 - I mean, the intel community couldn't live without significant IT capabilities and the ability to constantly acquire, to manage, and to access that information in real time.
 - Q Sir, in this intel operation and system where do intel analysts fall within that scope of what you were earlier saying?
- 20 A Most every, I won't say every, but most 21 every intel operation and certainly those that are in what you would call the S2 or the J2, the intelligence officer in support of the command has a number of analysts that span from the most junior person up to perhaps your senior analyst that may have 20 plus years of experience.

And those folks are critical. They, they make value out of all of this information that comes in. They have to understand the environment that they're in. They have to understand the questions that are important to a commander. And they have to be able to gather data, put it together and tell a story.

Q And, sir, when you also testified about intel systems and operations, you mentioned collection, what did you mean by collection, sir?

A Collection is the art of taking a system and gathering information and an example of that would merely be an antenna, if you put it out it's going to grab radio signals.

Another example might be a UAB.

Another example might be sending a human source out to ask for information from the human.

NATO that were out there.

So the collection is that art of how you go about acquiring the information that's important.

Q Sir, as the NATO ISAF, sir, how do you distinguish between your responsibilities as the US forces Afghanistan J2 and the NATO ISAF J2?

A So as the NATO ISAF J2 my responsibilities included providing the intel function, the intel knowledge, and the support to support commanders whether they were in the Italian operation out in Western Afghanistan, whether they were the Dutch running the operation in Kandahar, or whether it was the Germans up in Mazari-i-Sharif, I had to make sure that system was supporting all of the components of

In doing that, I orchestrated on the ground the resources that we had and a advocated backup through to the NATO headquarters for, for more resources or processes or authorities and that kind of stuff.

From a US foray standpoint, my job was to reach back into CENTCOM and my job to reach back into

CENTCOM was to help work with CENTCOM so we managed the 1 2 US processes in a way that nested with NATO so there 3 was not overlap, there was not duplication. We got the most benefit from those 4 resources that we were putting in there, and we did it 5 6 in a way that allowed that information flow to be of 7 benefit to our coalition and our NATO partners. Sir, what was the next, what was your next duty assignment after, I'm sorry, sir -- thank you, sir. 10 11 What was your next assignment after being 12 the US --13 I came home from Afghanistan and then I took the position we talked about at the very 14 15 beginning, the director of the Defense Counterintelligence and HUMINT Center in the Defense 16 17 Intelligence Agency. 18 0 Sir, that capacity as the director of the DCHC, how did you oversee DoD intelligence operations? 19 20 Α I didn't oversee all of DoD intel 21 operations but at that point I was specifically

2 operations. 3 And, you know, about 5,000 personnel spread out around the globe. 4 And generally speaking, sir, in an 5 0 6 unclassified manner, what type of personnel, analysts, 7 collectors? What are they, sir? It was a combination of reporters, Α 8 analysts, collectors. They ran, you know, from various

10

12

13

14

15

16

17

19

Q And, sir, in that capacity as the, in your last active duty job in the Army and NDIA, what about your experience or duty with information sharing within the United States Government?

levels, very junior to very senior folks, experienced and then but generally you're looking at a management layer and reporters, collectors and analysts.

- A On a number of levels. Information sharing in the HUMINT world is one of the most complex and one of the most difficult to work through.
- Folks that run HUMINT operations have a relationship with their sources. They have an obligation to protect their sources. And in many cases sources that work in, you know, at their own peril and at their own risk.

So the HUMINT world is one of the most difficult to work through that information sharing because you really have that personal connection to protect your source and protect your ability to do this function.

So we have a lot of experience in working through how do we integrate the entire DoD system and it's an evolutionary process.

You can imagine that it's a very similar situation where you get into the counterintelligence arena.

Counterintelligence borders the law enforcement area as well as working that particular counterintel against an adversarial intelligence agency and you can imagine the secrecy associated with trying to protect your investigations and that kind of stuff.

Part of that job and that information sharing within the U.S. Government is to make sure that, you know, that law enforcement seam could be bridged to the intel community for force protection support, as well as to make sure that, as you had one service working on a investigation that there was not data contained in there that might help another service and it wasn't being shared.

So we were often working through various forums and panels and groups to bridge those service investigatory processes and to work, to protect the department as a whole from not sharing information to the fullest extent.

Q Sir, as the director of the DCHC DIA what about your experiences, sir, with intelligence sharing with foreign partners then also of course with coalition forces?

A Yes. So probably in a number of areas, in that position I had elements that were deployed in both war zones, and so those folks, although they worked at the direction of the U.S. Government, it was their responsibility there to ensure that as they went through their processes they were sharing information with the US command that would enable and assist the coalition or the NATO structure that was in place.

In addition the Defense Counterintelligence and HUMINT Center oversaw the attaché program and as you may well be aware, attachés are positioned within the embassies across the world and their job is to develop those relationships with ministry of defense and defense elements and other nations in our foreign partners and, of course, that requires an element of information sharing, of conversation and being able to, you know, develop that relationship by getting common understanding and working through information sharing.

Q Sir, in your role as a director of the DCHC, what was your role with the defense attaché office and ultimately all the attachés?

A I was, I had an individual who ran the program for me. I think I rated a number of attachés throughout the world as their senior rater, you know, hundreds of them that I was involved with rating.

I would work to oversee and put processes in place that supported them, whether they were in

- times of crisis in Syria or whether they were working through issues in Japan with the nuclear stuff. I had to overlook for their safety and then ensure they were well taken care of and to ensure that the processes in place allowed their activities to go to the full business of the Department of Defense.
- Q Sir, were you in charge of the entire attaché corps?
 - A You know, I don't recall whether I was actually designated as the director of the attaché service.
- 12 O Yes.

15

- A But I had subordinates that oversaw that program for me and at the end of the day it, you know, it ran right through, right through me before it went up to the director of DIA.
- 17 Q Thank you, sir.
- Sir, before we continue with your background, could you please explain to the Court kind of generically what, how the military intelligence, DoD intelligence system overall is broken down through the

- tactical operational strategic levels?
- 2 A It's large, it's complex, it's very
- 3 technical. It has probably some of the finest service
- 4 members in it.

- 5 It, at the top level it begins with some
- 6 big agencies that have split responsibilities, both to
- 7 the Department of Defense and to the national community
- 8 and I refer to things such as the National Security
- 9 Agency or the National Geospatial Agency.
- 10 Q Is that the strategic level, sir?
- 11 A That would be the strategic level. But it - would, because of those organizations having
- 13 responsibilities to support the military war fighter
- 14 and certainly when US forces are in harms way and
- 15 people are at the risk of dying, we expect those
- 16 agencies to do everything they can within their power
- 17 to move the right information down to protect our
- 18 forces.
- 19 Then all of the services and the combatant
- 20 commands have a layer, the combatant commands are what
- 21 I'd say the operational level of intelligence.

Then the services have a layer of intelligence as well responsible for training personnel to work in the joint world, responsible for getting the processes in place for their tactical capabilities.

Then each of the services have their aspect of what might be referred to a tactical intelligence mission to support their service specific commanders.

In some cases a particular service may bring a capability to the Department of Defense on behalf of the whole department because the expertise is there.

You know, you wouldn't want the Army to do a acoustics intelligence under water, I mean, the Navy

So it is a very complex process that's layered and has to work together in a, you know, one might hope a seamless environment and then all the information is shared collaboratively and gets to the right.

could do that best for the nation.

This didn't happen overnight. If you can go back in the history books, you can go to the Vietnam

- era and you can see many examples of when, you know, we 1 2 wanted to move more intel -- how do you take that 3 national capability, how do you take that wealth of the nation and that capability that you've invested in and 4 how do you make sure you defend that last soldier 5 that's out there facing the enemy. 6 7 And so after Vietnam we started moving down this trail. We started building these tactical intel 8 capabilities. We started empowering our forces so that
- And you got to Desert Storm and you could see it. All of a sudden, it became more digital and you could really see, not that it all happened perfectly there, but you could see the art of where you could go.

they would have the information they needed to win on the battlefield.

And then for the next decade or so we moved forward again and then as we got into Iraq and Afghanistan it was like, it was like an explosion of how we can really provide the best intel in the world to support our soldiers on the battlefield.

So, sir, in that explanation where does a 1 Q 2 uniformed enlisted analyst fall? Is it only at the 3 brigade tactical, lowest level tactical, the lowest tactical level? 4 You know, they fall throughout that, 5 Α 6 throughout that layer. 7 Certainly a young enlisted intel specialist is going to learn the tools and the trade craft and the 8 capability to work down at that lowest level, be it, you know, in some cases it's down to the company now 10 11 but typically it was battalion. 12 You certainly will see those populate 13 inside the brigade. You'll see it within intel 14 companies that might rest within a brigade and you'll see them on intel battalions scattered throughout the 15 battlefield. 16 But you'll also have junior enlisted 17 18 soldiers that work in a division headquarters and work in a core headquarters. And even I sitting back at 19 20 Ft. Gordon, as I oversaw signals intelligence operations, the overwhelming majority of my service

- members that were working, you know, foreign languages 1 2 in Iraqi, and all of this, these are young soldiers, E1 3 to E4. Most of them, many, many of them on their first tour of duty. 4 Thank you, sir. 5 Q Sir, what military training have you 6 7 received to become an intelligence officer? What was your first training course? 8 Military intelligence officer basic course. Α And then what advanced training? 10 Q 11 Α After intelligence officer, advanced 12 course.
 - Q Any other formal military training to, that led you to as a senior intelligence officer within the Department of Defense?

16

17

18

19

20

- A Generally officership you get into the command and general staff college, you get into the U.S. Army War College.
- And then, you know, over the years at various times I would go to two or three-week courses that might, you know, focus me on or give me some additional information in certain area.

For instance, you know, the basic SIGACT course, electronic warfare course. The indications and warnings course that was run. The senior cryptologic officers course. So various courses scattered throughout the career.

Q And in general, sir, well I think you already answered, sir, what type of training that consisted of by giving those examples.

What about civilian education? What civilian education do you have outside of the military?

A Bachelors of Business Administration with a emphasis in accounting. Graduate degree, Master's Degree in Public Administration with emphasis in comptrollership from University of Missouri and then as part of the War College I took a master's degree. I think it's a Master's Degree in Strategic Studies or something along those lines.

Q And, sir, based off of that training and then your previous assignments, what year do you estimate that you started being involved full time with information sharing within the U.S. Government? 1 2 I believe that that would be 1993 when I 3 was the S3 for the Army brigade in support of the National Security Agency and that's really when I got 4 into understanding how do we take data and information 5 at the national level and get it out to the forces that 6 7 we had. So 1993 would be what I think is my first 8 real exposure to that. 10 What about your first real exposure short Q of sharing information of foreign partners and 11 coalition forces? 12 13 Yes. At a lower level that actually started in Germany back in the 1985 to '89 timeframe. 14 15 I happened to be in the brigade that was in the NATO sector so most of our, most of our training operations 16 17 had French or Belgium or German or British components 18 to it. And so at a low level as a captain it started 19 then. 20 Probably again in the '93/'95 timeframe when I was at NSA I began to get more exposure to that how do you work with foreign partners with info 1 2 sharing. 3 0 Sir, have you received any significant awards for your work in the intelligence and coalition 4 operations area? 5 I've been recognized with various medals 6 7 and for each assignment out there as well as a culminating award on retirement and also received a 8 couple of distinguished awards from the ODNI, both for 10 culmination of a career as well as my directorship of the IRTF. 11 And so, sir, starting with those two ODNI 12 0 13 awards, what is ODNI? Office of director of national 14 Α 15 intelligence. It's the cabinet level organization that oversees the United States intel community. 16 17 And what awards did you receive from them, 18 sir, or from the DNI? I don't recall their exact names. 19 Α I apologize. But, you know, as part of the IRTF, the 20 IRTF as a whole was given a substantial award for their 21

2
                 Then at my retirement ceremony, the ODNI
    came in and gave me one of their senior distinguished awards for, you know, a career supporting the intel 4 community.
5
                And, sir, we'll get to this later, but just 6 7
    briefly, what is the IRTF?
                The IRTF is the Information Review Task
         Α
8
    Force.
10
                And in general, sir, what was the IRTF?
         Q
                It was the effort that the Secretary of 11
    Defense put together that I led after the first release 12
    of the WikiLeaks materials, that was the effort to 14 understand that and to identify the risk and to begin 15 to mitigate the effects of that.
16
17
                 Sir, have you ever taught in the field of 18 intelligence?
19
         Α
                 I have. Upon, upon retirement I was approached by Georgetown University and I do teach a
21 course at Georgetown University in their master degree program and national security studies. I teach a course on defense intelligence.

- Q And in general, sir, what is that, kind of the purpose or focus of that course?
- A The focus of that course is to take Georgetown students working toward their master's degree and understanding national security affairs to appreciate the magnitude of the defense intelligence system, what's out there and to help them understand the issues associated with the intel community, the defense department and working within the national intel structure.

- Q Sir, prior to your retirement and taking on that adjunct professorship, did you also ever teach or lecture in the field of intelligence over your military career?
- A Certainly gave a number of briefings. A number of professional development sessions to junior officers over the years or NCOs. But I managed not to, I tended to stay operational and not go into the schoolhouse to teach.

Yes, sir. 1 Q 2 Sir, have you ever testified in a court 3 martial as an expert in the field of DoD intelligence -- oh, have you ever testified in a court 4 martial at all, sir? 5 I think my only testimony in a court 6 martial was as the commander once or twice I had to 7 come in and provide testimony as the commander of a 8 particular service member. 10 And, sir, when you did testify that once or Q 11 twice, was it, were you testifying in the field of, as an expert in the field of DoD intelligence operations? 12 13 No. I was, I was merely there as the 14 commander. 15 Q Okay, sir. 16 Sir, have you ever testified before 17 Congress? 18 Α Many times. And have you testified before Congress 19 20 based on your expertise in the field of DoD 21 intelligence operations?

Absolutely. 1 Α 2 And how about in the field of intelligence 3 sharing within the United States Government? Absolutely. 4 Α And also intelligence sharing with foreign 5 0 partners and coalition forces? 6 7 Α Yes, very much. And approximately, sir, how many times do 8 you estimate you've testified before Congress on these 10 subject matters? I don't know an exact number. It exceeds 11 10, it's less than 100. 12 13 Q Now, sir, when you say testify, are you 14 also including meeting with congressional staffers and 15 Congress persons? So testifying to me is sitting behind a 16 table in front of a committee that's been called to 17 18 order and you're answering questions. 19 Q Okay, sir. I've done that for a number of the 20 Α 21 committees, more in a closed session than in an open

- session because of the topics. Probably done that, you know, half a dozen times or so. Having met with smaller groups of most members and staffers, you know, another couple dozens times.
 - Q Sir, was this testimony related to your expertise, as I asked before, in the DoD intelligence operations field?
- A Yes. Most of them that I recall had to do with, you know, being the intel expert sitting as part of a particular team, either on Iraq, Afghanistan or, you know, HUMINT operations in general or a particular scenario response to a particular scenario or crisis that might be ongoing somewhere in the world.
- Q Sir, were you ever relied upon for your expertise to testify in matters of the impact based off of the WikiLeaks disclosures and PFC Manning's conduct?
- 17 A I was.

- Q Could you briefly explain overall how many times that you can remember and the general subject matter? I understand we're in open session, sir.
- 21 A Again, testifying in front of commission on WikiLeaks issue, maybe four or five times. 1 2 And then meeting with certain members or 3 staffers in smaller sessions that were not necessarily what, you know, official on-the-record testimony, 4 probably another half a dozen times. 5 6 Sir, have you ever given your expert 7 opinion relating to intelligence matters to senior officials within the U.S. Government? 8 Α Every day a J2 briefs a four-star general, he's on the line and he's on the hook for providing the 10 11 best expertise that you can at the time. 12 And then what about, again, very 13 generically, sir, because we'll get into this more 14 later, what about in terms of your role as overseeing 15 the IRTF and doing the mitigation and damage assessments related to this case? 16 Describe that role or have I ever had to 17 18 give an opinion? 19 Have you ever given an opinion; yes, sir? 20 In many times I've had to -- for a period Α 21 of time there I was briefing senior officials almost on

- 1 a daily basis.
- In some cases, you know, receiving briefs
- and participating in briefs the more senior. And
- 4 certainly I've briefed this particular issue to a
- 5 number of senior folks both in the Pentagon as well as
- 6 in other places of the U.S. Government that would
- 7 impact it.
- 8 Q Sir, when you say senior officials,
- 9 although I know I asked the question about senior
- 10 officials, who are you talking about in general?
- 11 A You know, as a matter of routine you're
- 12 talking about, you know, a layer or two down from the
- 13 Secretary of Defense kind of on a daily go. Certainly
- 14 had to brief the Under Secretary of Defense for intel.
- 15 Certainly had to brief the J2, the chairman, and on one - occasion I had to go in personally with the Sec. Def.
- 17 Q Sir, have you ever represented the
- 18 Department of Defense or DIA on intelligence matters
- 19 with foreign governments?
- 20 A Yes.
- 21 Q Can you in a generic way explain that for the Court and explain how you've had to represent the United States in that regard?

A You know, in numerous opportunities as the J2 in EUCOM I was the senior defense intel person there in the theater and, you know, had to very often engage with the senior intel official of Romania, Poland, Turkey, as we worked through how we would develop relationships, how we would do info sharing, where we would, you know, better create our relationships and our partnerships.

Q Thank you, sir.

Then, sir, your overall capacity in your past 31 years have you had experience with intel analysts with junior enlisted intel analysts providing, performing their duties within the DoD intelligence community?

A Absolutely. I often say that I can almost go back to every assignment and the success that I may have enjoyed in those places and I can often look to a young junior service member who, given the right tools, given the right information, given the right

- opportunity often created a game-changing moment or a game-changing effort.
- I can, I can recall events like that in Afghanistan. I can recall events like that at Ft. Gordon. I can tell you that young intel analysts in Bosnia made discoveries and analytical judgments that commanders accepted that were game-changing in our ability to transform the Bosnia environment.

 - It is hugely important to empower these young intel analysts and let them have everything they can to make a difference. And more times than not, they will truly shine.
 - Q Thank you, sir.

- Your Honor, the United States at this time moves to offer Brigadier General Carr as an expert in DoD intelligence operations and intelligence sharing with the United States Government and with foreign partners in coalition forces?
- MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, we make a objection to General Carr's expertise and we'd like to do voir dire in support of the objection.

Can we take a break?
1
                THE COURT: Yes. I'll withhold ruling on 2
    this until I hear the defense's voir dire of the 3
    witness.
4
                How long would you like?
5
                MR. HURLEY:
                              10 minutes.
7
                 THE COURT: Please don't discuss your testimony or knowledge of the case with anyone during 8
    the recess and we will be recessed for 10 minutes.
10
                 (Court in recess.)
                 THE COURT: Court is called to order.

                Yes.
                General Carr, as you indicated with the 19 20 Government you never testified as an expert before in a court martial?

Only testified as a commander, yes. 1 Α 2 So as a fact witness? 0 3 Α Yes and character witness. That kind of stuff. 4 You have testified before in your 5 0 intelligence capacities before Congress? 6 7 Α I have. Were you qualified as an expert? When I 8 say qualified, were you asked questions by the 10 committees members to established your bona fides as an 11 intelligence expert? 12 I don't think they went through a process 13 specifically to validate me in that regard. 14 There was certainly some questions that, 15 you know, asked as to my background and what basis I might have come to them in brief. I think a selection 16 17 was more by either the Defense Intelligence Agency or 18 by the Joint Staff who decided that I would represent the chairman in front of that particular panel. 19 20 It was a function often of your duty Q 21 position, correct?

More cases than not, it was a function of my duty position but at the end of the day in most cases the chairman is the person that's summoned to Congress and then he makes the selection on who is the best expert on the staff to represent him for a particular topic. So when you went to Congress and testified did you produce yourself as an expert? Α No, I introduced myself as who I am and the position that I was there and why I was there. And so you never, before today, introduced yourself as an intelligence expert in DoD intelligence operations. I don't know that I've personally Α introduced myself in that way. I know I've certainly where those that were hosting introduced me that way.

Q Were you ever introduced as an expert in information sharing inside the United States Government?

stood up for speeches and stood up in various forms

A Not sure I've been introduced in that particular way. I've certainly been brought before a number of different forums where information sharing was the key topic of interest and a discussion point for that particular event.

- Q Ever held yourself out as an expert in information sharing within the United States Government?

 - A On a personal level, I've never stood up and professed that but I've often been put in the place where I was asked by the seniors to be the key representative of a particular --
 - Q I'll have the same questions for the other areas of expertise.
 - Ever held yourself out as an expert in information sharing with foreign partners?
 - A You know, again, I don't know that I would get up on the public stand and cheerlead and say that's the case but significant experience in doing it and didn't shy away with it and was more than prepared to meet the functions that were required in my duty position to execute those functions.

1	Q Last one, ever held yourself out as an
2	expert in information sharing within coalition
3	operations?
4	A Again, I don't know that I've ever done
5	that on public platform but, you know, at some point in
6	time when I retired there probably wasn't too many
7	people that have had as much experience in doing that.
8	Q There are other people with similar levels
9	of experience though; is that right?
10	A There certainly are today.
11	Q Yesterday we had a conversation, do you
12	recall us talking in the witness trailer?
13	A Yes.
14	Q And you indicated that other intelligence
15	general officers would have a similar level of
16	expertise?
17	A I think other U.S. Army intel officers at
18	the general officer level that have had the common set
19	of experiences that I've had would have the same level
20	of expertise.
21	I don't think that general officers or flag

officers in the other intel services necessarily have that same experience that the U.S. Army has had as a result of the positions and the placements and the functions that we often perform.

- Q So by your answer, you would neck that group of people down to not just intelligence GOs but Army intelligence GOs?
 - A My personal opinion is that in those areas that you mentioned, Army intel general officers tend to have more experience and expertise in those areas.
- Q Have you ever met anyone that held himself or herself out as an expert in DoD intelligence operations?
- I've certainly not only heard myself but I've heard others be introduced at various forums where they were acknowledged by the organization that was hosting them and asking them to speak as, you know, experts in defense intelligence operations as a result of their participation in a particular event or crisis or war zone.
 - Q So you never heard anyone say, I'm an intelligence, an expert in Department of Defense 1 2 intelligence operations? 3 Α I don't know that I've ever heard anyone say that. 4 Can you recall? 5 Q I can't recall the exact spot that someone 6 Α 7 might have said that. Have you ever, we'll go with all the info 8 Q sharings and I'll ask them all at once. 10 Have you ever heard someone say, hi, I'm an expert in information sharing within the United States 11 12 Government, with foreign partners, or with coalition 13 forces? I have. And the art of policy and 14 Α disclosure is in fact a functional feel and there are 15 people that have applied that trait for a long period 16 17 of time. 18 0 Have you worked with these individuals, these individuals that hold themselves out as experts? 19 20 I have on occasion. Α 21 Q Are you familiar with what facts and circumstances they, the facts and data, I'm sorry, not facts and circumstances, facts and data they use in applying their expertise?

- A Regulatory guidance and I guess in some cases there's probably some law out there, but regulatory guidance on law and then it's the question of experience.
- I mean, in some cases as the J2, wherever you are, and certainly in the bigger J2 positions, you're going to find folks on your staff that have some training in this particular area. And you supervise them and you lead them.
- Q Just to sum up. The sufficient facts or data that you're aware of would be regulatory guidance, legal guidance, or just the law itself and their experience; is that right?
- A When we're talking about the folks that I mentioned, the type of folks that might be on your staff as the lead individual for policy I think that's probably a pretty good one.
- Q Right. I'm sorry to interrupt you, sir, but it's important. I'm not talking about those people. I'm talking about the people that hold themselves out as experts in information sharing within the United States Government with foreign partners and with coalition partners. That's who I'm talking about.

A Well, again, who are these people that actually would hold themselves out? You know, if I were to want to say I'd hold myself out that way, I would be looking at things that, you know, you had experience, you've successfully applied it and perhaps more importantly you've done it in a way that hasn't caused, you know, wrongdoing and you've been able to apply that knowledge at an expert level where you have created solutions that allow us to get to success.

At the end of the day most -- a lot of this, again, the difference between a NATO environment that evolves over a long period of time and a collation, a coalition often has to come together very fast. It takes people who understand the left and right boundaries that can form ideas together and create solutions that allow us to be successful.

Q Okay. Sir, I apologize, I'm confused by your answer.

My question is this: Experts in the field of information and sharing inside the United States Government, information sharing with foreign partners and with coalition forces do you know what facts or data they would use to make the determination, to make their opinions, their expert opinions?

A I don't know that that answer is the same for every organizational structure.

I would say that a particular national agency would have a office where a group of people that would oversee their foreign partner relationships.

Their expertise and their guidelines would be based on a full understanding of the capabilities and the limitations of their particular organization.

A full understanding of the intent by the leadership of the organization and the U.S. Government as to what they need to accomplish. An understanding of what the laws is or the particular policies and regulations.

And then they would have to apply those three things to

- create the answers and the solutions that would suffice to be at the expert level.

 Yes, sir.

 And that's a, you're surmising that, right,
- And that's a, you're surmising that, right, you're just -- you're using your expertise and you're saying, well, this is what I would do?
- A Well, that and I've watched people do it and I've done it myself.
 - Q So you, you do know what facts or data are used by experts in those fields that we're talking about, info sharing?
 - A I cannot cite you the exact regulatory number or all of the policy statements that are out there but I think I can explain the thought processes, what would go into that equation as they attempted to apply their expertise.
- 17 Q Right.

12

13

15

- These other experts we're talking about,

 not your expertise, these other experts?
- 20 A Right.
- 21 Q So you've made opinions with respect to the disclosures in this case; is that correct? 1 2 Α I have. I've made judgments and --3 0 Okay. With that, I don't want to get into specifics of those opinions or judgments yet. 4 Did you make those judgments considering 5 6 the type of information that is normally considered by 7 experts in DoD intelligence operations and in information sharing? 8 Α I think there are ideas that come from those two bodies of knowledge but I think it was 10 blended with a number of other things that had to do 11 12 with the environment, the situation, and then coming to 13 a comprehension of basically something that had not 14 been witnessed before, had not been experienced before 15 and so, you know, there wasn't really a playbook. 16 had to put your knowledge, your expertise together and 17 come to those judgments with this new situation. 18 0 But, sir, there are, there's a normal 19 process that one would go through, would you agree with 20 that?

There was nothing about WikiLeaks that was

1 normal.

- Q Well there's a normal process that you go through when you're addressing a problem.
- A There's certain problem solving methodologies and we get trained on that kind of stuff, sure.

 - Q As you went through and rendered these expert judgments, is this the type -- are the expert judgments that you've rendered based on the information that are normally considered by other experts?
 - A I'm not sure I completely follow your question there but what I, you know, I didn't lock myself in a room and come up with these conclusions.
 - I had a fairly significant staff of analysts. Some of them were skilled in information sharing. Some of them were skilled in counterintelligence. Some of them were skilled in just general intel analysis. Some of them were skilled in the operational art. And so they all provided knowledge to me and I guided them as we reached conclusions.

All right, sir. We'll move on. 1 Q 2 Have you shared any of these opinions and 3 judgments with the other experts in DoD intelligence operations and information sharing, the other experts 4 that you know of, have you shared your personal 5 conclusions and judgments? 6 Certainly as I was going through the 7 process of being the director of the IRTF, I had to 8 share my thoughts and the implications, if not on a daily, maybe an every other day basis with folks that I 10 11 considered experts. For instance, the person who was 12 the J2 in the Central Command, I would put him in, you 13 know, as an expert, and I certainly worked with him. 14 0 I'm sorry, sir, I misspoke. 15 The opinions that you have now in 2013, 16 these opinions and judgments, have you gone back and 17 shared those with any of the other experts that you 18 know of, the people that you would consider experts? 19

A I haven't talked to any of those folks since I retired. I certainly haven't talked to them about this particular case.

Did you ever -- you gathered the facts and (Nodding, yes.)

When we talked yesterday, one thing you indicated in your talk was as you looked at the data you received you took it at face value. Do you recall telling me that?

A I don't remember that exact term but can you put it in context there for me? Help me out?
Q Sir, of course I can.
You would get information, whatever it is,
and you wouldn't question it was contained in there, you would take that information for what it said on the piece of paper. It was what it was. You took that information at face value. You didn't dig deeper on

A Yeah, I'm not, you know, I'm not sure I would agree that all cases or all data that came in was of equal significance.

the information that you received to see if those facts were really accurate or not is what I'm saying?

If you were referring to a spot report or a significant activities report off the battlefield, I never picked up the phone and called the battlefield commander and asked to, you know, explain that.

I will tell you that I did ask my staff on more than one occasion to explore and make sure we understand that because the way it's written it might have one meaning or another meaning. And I asked my staff to, you know, continue to work through and make sure that they had a clear understanding.

Same thing with other impacts that might have been out of the attaché world or something. I didn't personally go back and do that.

Q With those, if there was an area for interpretation you would push back. But if you got the report you never questioned the validity of what was in the report, you used this data in the process of performing your job as a director of the IRTF or in whatever way it was appropriate you thought at the time?

A If the data didn't present itself in a way that caused me to question its validity, I accepted it and moved on.

I think all of us get presented data, certainly in the intel community you're always looking at data and wondering its validity. It's part of the 1 2 intel business. But if I didn't question it, no. 3 0 Sir, we have talked a couple of times about our conversation yesterday. Yesterday we talked about 4 intelligence priorities; is that right? 5 6 Α We did. 7 And we talked at length about intelligence priorities, didn't we? 8 9 Α We did. And that was because the Government had 10 11 listed you as an expert in intelligence priorities? I don't know if they did or not. We didn't 12 13 discuss that this morning. When I walked into the room with you 14 15 yesterday for the first time I had heard the word intelligence priorities being used in this context or 16 17 question of expertise. 18 Q Yes, sir. And we also talked about 19 coalition operations, do you recall that conversation? 20 We did, we did. Α 21 Q But you're not being offered by the

Government as an expert in coalition operations?
2
                No, I think what, Your Honor, I don't know 3 exactly the term, I don't recall it. I think it had to do with coalition information sharing as opposed to coalition operations, which is a different art.
5
                Sure. So those are distinct categories?
                I think they're related but in my opinion they are distinct.
         Q
                So, sir, let's talk about these areas of expertise.
10
                Department of Defense intelligence
    operation, that's a broad area you would agree, right?
                It is.
13
         Α
                And it contains many sub, if this was the 14
15 broad topic, DoD intelligence operations, there would be many sub-bullets that would go directly underneath 16 Department of Defense intelligence operations?
17
         Α
                Correct.
                What would some of those sub-bullets be in 19
    a broad and unclassified sense?
20
         Α
                Analysts, analytical reporting, dissemination, collection, vetting and then you could 1 2 go through a series of functional areas, 3 counterintelligence, human intelligence, signals intelligence, imagery intelligence. And you could go 4 through the whole collection cycle associated with the 5 operation of each of those. 6 At the end of the day, someone who is 7 working on a joint environment of the joint command as 8 the senior intel officer has the responsibility and is accountable for putting all of that together to 10 11 effectively execute the defense intelligence 12 capabilities within that theater. 13 0 Wouldn't information sharing, whether it's inside the United States Government or foreign 14 15 partners, coalition forces, wouldn't that be a subsection of DoD intelligence operations? You've got 16 17 to get the intelligence and then share it? 18 Α Yeah, I used the term dissemination there. 19 But intel sharing and dissemination, they're perhaps 20 not completely the same but there is some overlap

there.

Right. But again it's a sub-bullet, so 1 Q 2 DoD, intelligence operations and that's the subset? 3 Α Yes. Sir, have you ever acted as a original 4 classification authority? 5 I believe I have. It's not a common, it's 6 7 not a common function, but yes, I have in my capacity as senior intel officer in European Command or in a 8 particular theater of operations. Q And those are identified by the executive 10 order 13526, right? 11 12 Α Yeah, it's not a, it's not a very large 13 group. It's quite small. 14 Before you were an original classification 0 15 authority, did you ever have occasion to disagree with an original classification authority regarding their 16 17 judgment on classified information? 18 Α I don't have a specific case that comes to 19 memory but, you know, I think over time, I don't know 20 that you -- we often have debates and in a way to try 21 to get the classification of particular information

- down to a level that you can get it to the people that you feel most need it.
- Q Would you ever do that, that debate, would it be sort of an internal debate with the person who was the original classification authority for the information?

 - A Normally it would be really between representatives of a particular organization.
 - Q Right. Very limited.

- You would never disagree publicly with a original classification authority regarding his or her judgment on classification?
 - A I don't know that I've ever got up at a town center and made a cry, I disagree. But certainly I have over VTC or over various, you know, in forums, you know, argued or advocated for a particular case that I needed something to access the information.
 - Q Would you do it as a witness in this case, would you review a document and say this doesn't need to be classified as a witness sitting in that chair in this forum?

I don't think that's necessary in here
2
    today.
            I don't think that that's what I'm asked to do
    but --
                Would you?
         Q
                And I don't know that I would necessarily
         Α
    have all of the references that I might need to make
    that judgment.
                Now, most of the assessments you're going
         Q
    to talk about, when I say assessments, I mean opinions and judgments, you made these assessments in 2011; is
11
    that right?
                In the period between 2010, 2011 timeframe 12
13
    yes.
14
                Have you gone back to the original source
15 material to prepare your analysis to see if the judgments are still valid?
17
                I have on one occasion gone back and spent 18 probably 30 minutes scanning the final report that we signed out at the conclusion of the task force.
20 are the only, that's the only thing I read.
21
                Let me rephrase. I did read the two-page

memo that was my guidance from the Secretary of 1 2 Defense. 3 0 Other than that, you haven't, you didn't consider anything in preparing for your trial today? 4 Α Certainly considered things in my mind but 5 I didn't go grab any particular documents or seek out 6 any reading material. 7 Let me correct myself, I said your trial, 8 Q of course I mean your testimony. 10 Α Thank you. 11 0 You're welcome. General Carr, may I have one second? 12 13 THE COURT: Yes. BY MR. HURLEY: 14 15 0 With respect to your congressional 16 testimony, did you have a prepared statement? I know a 17 lot of times congressional statement begins with 18 prepared statements. Did you have one in any of the times that you have testified, raised your right hand 19 20 and testified before congress, not these informal 21 meetings that you had with members of your staffs?

1	A Yeah, you know, I don't recall ever having
2	to raise my right hand. I mean, I was called to the
3	table. We sat at the table with the name in front of
4	the microphones. In most cases I don't think I had a
5	prepared statement.
6	I was often the intel rep on a group of two
7	or three. So the lead of the group, the operator,
8	would often read the prepared statement, not my
9	statement.
10	Q In your capacity as the director of the
11	IRTF, did you ever have a prepared statement when you
12	testified before Congress?
13	A We did collectively have a prepared
14	statement but I was not the one that read the 15	statement. The statement was read by someone else that
16	was part of the testimony team.
17	Q Do you recall who else participated in this
18	collective prepared statement?
19	A I don't have all the names from each time.
20	Q Just a name you can remember?
21	A I know in one case I went up with the,

```
Mr. Tom Ferguson at that time who was the Acting Under 1

    Secretary of Defense for intelligence.
3
                I know on one case I testified along with General Clapper, the Director of National Intelligence.

                Ma'am, we would object to this particular 11 testimony in three ways: First, that the expertise 12 proffered by the Government is overbroad.
13
                Second, that it's cumulative.
14
                THE COURT: Cumulative to what?
15
                MR. HURLEY: Cumulative, the DoD intelligence operations and his information sharing 16
17 inside DoD intelligence operations, those are -- one is 18 a subset of the other. So it, from the perspective of the defense, ma'am, that could be cumulative bit of
20 information or cumulative expertise.
21
                THE COURT: All right.
```

MR. HURLEY: Finally, ma'am, the testimony 1 2 of this witness as we have got through the voir dire it 3 indicates that it fails MRE702, it doesn't rely on sufficient facts or data. The information is not 4 applied to the problem in the correct way. 5 6 Just one second, ma'am. 7 There's no evidence that the witness has applied the principles and methods reliable to the 8 facts in the case. 10 THE COURT: All right. Government? First 11 off, start by addressing the overbroad. 12 What's the point in the expertise in, first 13 of all, do you agree that intelligence sharing with 14 U.S. Government and foreign partners and coalition 15 forces is a subset of DoD intelligence operations? MR. FEIN: Ma'am, it can be. The only 16 17 reason I say it can be because as General Carr 18 testified prior to the voir dire that intelligence information sharing within the U.S. Government is 19 20 broader than DoD. I think there is potential for 21 significant overlap in the fields of expertise but they're not -- one is not encompassing of the other.

1
                THE COURT: Okay. I'm willing to address
3
    the defense objections.
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.
4
                First, Your Honor, the expertise, ma'am, if
    I may testify from the table -- answer questions from the table?
7
                THE COURT: Of course.
9
                MR. FEIN: First, Your Honor, the expertise being overbroad. The United States intends to ask 10
11
    General Carr about the impact, to ask him his opinion 12 on the impact on the overall intelligence operations of 13 junior enlisted soldiers disclosing classified information and as he's testified that within the 14
15 Department of Defense intelligence system that there are junior analysts at all levels from tactical to 16 strategic level and in all function areas. And that's 17
18
    where intelligence analysts are found.
19
                PFC Manning was an intelligence analyst and 20 we intend to ask him his opinion on intelligence 21 analysts committing these types of crimes and what aggravating circumstances from that and potentially in the future.

So the United States, while it's not overbroad based off of the crimes that PFC Manning has been convicted of, cumulative of itself, I think I answered that it's not per se cumulative because one deals with information just exclusive within the DoD and it's information centric.

There's no question that DoD, Department of Defense intelligence operations, does also include information sharing within DoD. But General Carr is also going to explain the United States intends to elicit his opinion on how information sharing outside of the DoD with DoD information also was impacted both within the Government and with foreign partners.

As far as the MRE702, excuse me, Your Honor, 702 objection, is that General Carr is first of all basing his opinion on his specialized knowledge and training. He is relying on his 31 years of experience and his unique jobs both within the coalition environment and within the Department of Defense as an intel professional.

2
                Based off of that, Your Honor, the facts he 3 reviewed in his official capacity and relied upon are sufficient with those, within the field. Members of 4
    Congress relied upon General Carr, U.S. Government officials relied upon General Carr, and that is based off his experience and knowledge and the information he 7 reviewed and we'll get, assuming his expertise is 8 granted, we'll get to the exact information and the types of information he reviewed for that opinion.
11
                THE COURT: Yes.
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, there's a lot of, to 12 assess out what the Government just said before I 13 14 address it, I'd like to address it first, before I do 15 that, could we excuse General Carr for this conversation?
17
                THE COURT: All right.
18
                General Carr, once again, why don't you go ahead and wait outside and don't discuss your testimony 19 20
    with anyone while you're in wait.
                Let the record reflect the witness has 21

1 departed.

MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, from the position of defense, what the one area of expertise was as we took note the impact that flowed to junior enlisted intelligence analyst and his position of defense, ma'am, but that opinion, however derived, allowing the Court allows him to get there that that doesn't relate to or result from the accused's misconduct. That those individuals aren't victims.

prong, or the command prong, or the fill-in-the-blank prong of 1001(b)(4). But it said includes but isn't limited to the position of the defense, ma'am, that that testimony you heard, here's how it affects all the individuals no matter where they're found in the operation spectrum doesn't fit within 1001(b)(4).

THE COURT: Is it your objection that the witness doesn't have the knowledge of that or your objection that it's not unit aggravation?

MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, we have got to -- there are two separate objections based on the proffer from the Government. The first that the witness doesn't 1 qualify as an expert under MRE702. That's what --

3
                THE COURT: I guessed that.
                MR. HURLEY: This objection, ma'am, is even 4 if you allow him to get to be an expert, so say you 5 6 overruled the suite of objections that we filed, that under 1001(b)(4) that expertise doesn't fit within your 7
    1001(b)(4).
8
                THE COURT: So the Defense's position that the impact on soldiers in the unit is not impact on the 10
    unit?
11
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, it's not soldiers in 12 13
    the unit necessarily what the Government indicated.
14
    It's soldier throughout the operational spectrum, be 15
    they at national, strategic, or tactical level.
                And it's not tailored to what we would, and 16
17
    the Defense's position would be it's not tailored to 18 the command, 1001(b)(4) and the command prong says this information in the command. So there's a command that 19 20 must be selected and lawyers or a reference point that 21 must be made as to what command we're talking about.

THE COURT: Government, what's the basis 1 2 for expertise on impact on unit analysts? 3 MR. FEIN: Ma'am, I think there's some confusion right there. The United States, the reason I 4 attempted to articulate and I'll try again here is to 5 6 qualify General Carr as an expert in DoD intelligence 7 operations is PFC Manning's impact on DoD intelligence operations. 8 9 THE COURT: But there's a distinction between his impact on intelligence operations and his 10 impact on individual junior analysts. 11 12 MR. FEIN: Correct, Your Honor. And the 13 United States did not intend to say we're offering General Carr's testimony on impacting individual 14 15 analysts by name. What General Carr will give an opinion on 16 17 PFC Manning's actions. He's been found guilty on 18 having impacted the entire system because of lack of trust of junior analysts and he'll give his opinion on 19 20 why that is.

Your Honor, the United States will say that's directly related to his actions, PFC Manning's actions.

THE COURT: So has this IRTF studied that?

MR. FEIN: No, ma'am. It's General Carr by looking at what the IRTF didn't study and he reviewed and he knew from that and his opinion based on the 31 years of experience on how the impact will occur.

And second, Your Honor, it's not just what Defense wants to make about the unit but it's a permissible aggravating factor for this is the impact of national security and what General Carr is going to talk about is that if the United States Government and DoD and intelligence community cannot rely on analysts because of lack of trust and insider threat, that that does impact our national security and he's going to talk about that, too.

THE COURT: That's a different opinion than the one you articulated. The one I thought I heard you articulate was he was going to opine that the trust of junior analysts on the ground is impacted and that impacts national security.

MR. FEIN: No, ma'am. It's the system he's
2
    (inaudible) that we're offering him as an expert in.
3
    It's the DoD intelligence operations that are affected.
    DoD intelligence operations, that's what the United 4
    States is offering him as an expert in and that's what 5 was impacted and the reason it was impacted is what I 6
    just talked about, Your Honor, that the intelligence operations itself has been and will continue to be 8 impacted and he's explaining why after he gives the opinion.
10 11
                THE COURT: All right.
12
                MR. FEIN: That is based off the analysts, 13
    Your Honor.
14
                THE COURT: Any last words?
15
                MR. COOMBS: Your Honor, one thing, I think
    I would like to just jump in on this issue because I 16
17
    think it may impact on other witnesses.
18
                As we sat down with the Government yesterday, the Government has been giving us the areas 19 20
    of expertise for the witnesses that they intend to call 21 as experts.
```

And then also we have been trying to get 1 2 from them the basis for the opinion so that we can see 3 how the individual got to that. And that's been in general format that we have received that information. 4 As these witnesses are testifying and this 5 6 witness is beginning to testify, it appears that the Government is, is trying to put just about everything 7 that ever happened at the feet of PFC Manning. And 8 this may be something that we will brief on, but this is very similar to US versus Nourse, 34 MJ. 10 11 THE COURT: What does that mean? 12 MR. COOMBS: I'll tell you, ma'am. US v. 13 Nourse, the (inaudible) case what is directly relating 14 to or resulting directly from an RCM 1001(b)(4). 15 What Nourse stands for that that phrase 16 directly related to or resulting from, imposes a higher 17 standard than mere relevance and, in fact, the accused 18 is not responsible for a never-ending change of cause and effects. 19 20 And that that's under --21 THE COURT: All right, we're gonna do this.

We will take an extended lunch. Do you want to brief
2
    this to me? You can brief it to me.
3
                MR. COOMBS: I will.
                THE COURT: Government, you brief your 4
               This is apparently going to be a systemic 5 response.
6
    issue for the sentencing.
7
                MR. FEIN: Yes, ma'am.
                THE COURT: If you anticipated this issue 8 is going to come up, why am I hearing about it at a 9
    lunch break with the witness sitting here.
10
11
                MR. COOMBS: That's a great question because what we asked of the Government and the 12
13
    Government said, hey, we want to sit down with you to, 14 you know, to basically flush out any issues for 15 sentencing.
                We said, yeah, let's sit down. And then we 16 17 approached the Government again saying let's sit down.
18 Yesterday, we approached them again saying let's sit down and let's narrow down what are you 19 20 trying to qualify these individuals as an expert. What 21 areas do you intend them to testify to and what's the basis of their opinion. And we haven't gotten specifics back on any of that.
```

And in this individual we just learn now, there's probably 914 jinxes testimony because we haven't received in discovery any of his previous statements to Congress on the IRTF. We didn't receive those in discovery.

know, sandbagging. The issue is we don't know what these witnesses were going to testify to. And we interviewed them before, we got a very small snippet of time with each of these individuals, 45 minutes to an hour. And at that time the individuals had a very general understanding what they'd be testifying to.

Even as of yesterday when we spoke with Brigadier General Carr, our understanding based upon the sitdown with the Government of what he qualified as an expert for and what he ultimately is attempting to be qualified as an expert now was not the same --

THE COURT: Is there anything in writing from the Government?

1	MR. COOMBS: No. This was essentially a,
2	little over an hour meeting with the Government in the
3	deliberations room with the idea let's, you know, let's
4	figure out what you're trying to offer these
5	individuals as expert in. What's the basis of their
6	opinion?
7	And what we asked them for is we said,
8	look, if you had given this to us in discovery, the
9	basis, point to where in discovery, because what we
10	intend to ask these witnesses, okay, what's the basis
11	of your opinion. List them out, one, two, three, four,
12	five. And then compare that with what the Government
13	has told us as far as what they're providing as the
14	basis.
15	But often times the witness either doesn't
16	know for sure what they're going to be testifying to
17	or, in this case, the expertise that we have been told
18	and we spent a considerable amount of time with General
19	Carr on, isn't the expertise that he's going to be 20	testifying to.

So --

```
THE COURT: What's the Government telling
2
    you he was going to be testifying about as his 3
    expertise?
                MR. COOMBS:
                             I'll defer it.
4
                THE COURT: All right.
5
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, its 50 May filing by 6 7
    the Government indicating which experts they're going to call. I'll get the number for you as soon as 8
               They indicated that General Carr was going to talk about intelligence priorities, coalition 10 11 operations, and information sharing. And I don't 12 remember how they described the information sharing.
13
                In that meeting with the Government 14 yesterday, we talked about intelligence priorities and what the Government I'm sure will say what they said is 15
    we must have left with different understandings.
16
17
                I understood that intelligence priorities 18 was still going to be an area of expertise from General 19
    Carr.
           They thought they communicated to me it wasn't.
20 That's just the way it was. But I was going off of, ma'am, that Appellate Exhibit.
21

```
THE COURT: May I see the Appellate
2
    exhibit? Which Appellate exhibit are we talking about?
3
                MR. FEIN: Ma'am, if this makes it easier, we'll provide all the Appellate exhibits. I've given 4 the Defendant plenty of notice since I produced all of 5
    the discovery a year ago that has all of the information in it. We'll lay all that out in the 7
    filing Mr. Coombs wants to do at the last minute.
8 9
                THE COURT:
                            Right. Now I want to take a 15-minute recess and I want to see both counsel because 10 11 we have a schedule here that has to go, that we have 12 got to go forward. And I, as the Court, can't make 13 decisions when I'm just immediately in the middle of a 14 lunch break, here's case X, case Y, case Z, issue this, 15 issue that, decide in five minutes. It doesn't work 16 that way.
17
                Let's put the Court in recess and come see me.

He applied reliable principles and 10 methods to intelligence operations and information sharing issues. Brigadier General Carr is a witness 11 12 properly qualified as an expert by his knowledge of 13 intelligence operations and experience. His opinion will help the trier of fact to understands the evidence 14 15 and determine facts at issue. Brigadier General Carr 16 was (inaudible) mitigating any exposures given to them 17 by PFC Manning. His testimony is based on sufficient 18 facts and data. Defense motion opposing Brigadier General Carr's qualification as expert witness MRE702 19 20 is denied. I also don't find it's cumulative. 21 Now, the defense further objects to

Brigadier General Carr testimony as improper aggravation as RCM1001. As the Court doesn't know what Brigadier Carr's testimony will be, the Court in it's interlocutory capacity will hear the testimony.

The defense will file a brief tonight they believe is improper aggravation, along with any

- Should the Court find that some or all of Brigadier General Carr's testimony is improper aggravation evidence under RCM1001, the Court will, as acting as sentencing authority, will disregard it. The trial will continue as previously scheduled.

7
                MR. COOMBS: No, Your Honor.
                MR. FEIN: No, Your Honor. Just point of 8 clarification, for the Government assume the testimony before Congress as it relates to the witness' testimony 10
    in RCM914.
11
12
                THE COURT: Of course. I assume your 13 request will be no broader than that.

14
                             That is correct, Your Honor.
15
                THE COURT: Is there anything else we need to address before we recall the witness.
16
17
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, one thing, we're going 18 to have objections as well to the facts, some of the facts that General Carr is going to talk about.
20
    we make those objections for the Court now or include that in our brief tonight?
21

```
THE COURT: Give me an example.
1
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, just the establishment of the IRTF, how many people worked there, how, what their duty schedule was.
2 3
4
                THE COURT: What is objectionable about any 5 of them?
7
                MR. HURLEY: Ma'am, we believe that that,
    that there's two bits of objection to it. Two bases:
8
    The first is that it's law enforcement evidence essentially. That they needed an in-depth analysis of 10 11
    the information and in doing an in-depth analysis of 12
    the information they identified ways the harm could be 13 minimized and took what they thought were appropriate 14 steps to do that.
15
                So our objection to that would be that information, that investigation and the money that was 16
17
    spent and the man hours that were worked is improper 18 aggravation of RCM1000B4.
                THE COURT: Under the case law the fact 19 that general article whatever was held and all the --

2	You've made it.
3	Government, are you eliciting that kind of

5	MR. FEIN: From General Carr we're
6	eliciting general information about that but there will
7	be similar information right after between the two of
8	them.
9	THE COURT: I understand the objection. If
10	you want to stand up and say this is the objection I'm

by senior members and Department of Defense, I think, chairman, secretary came out publicly and expressed some significant concern for the safety of sources, the safety of our troops, the safety of those people we were in contact with.

And so between the senior levels of the Department of the Defense, the senior levels of the Office of Director of National Intelligence and DIA, they came to the conclusion that they needed to put a task force together to deal with this particular issue and the task force was formed and the name that was given to it was the Information Review Task Force, otherwise IRTF.

Q What was your role, sir, as it pertains to the IRTF?

A So in agreement between DIA, the Department of Defense senior leadership and ODNI came to the conclusion that DIA would take the responsibility for establishing that task force and it was determined that General Burgess would then turn to me and give me that function, that task to oversee the task force. Get it established, get started, and execute the mission.

2
                Sir, who ultimately determined that DIA
3 would have the lead for running this IRTF?
         Α
                I believe it was an agreement between 4
    Secretary of Defense's front office, the ODNI's front 5 office, Chief of Staff level and Lieutenant Burgess 6 7 personally. Those three agreed that the IRTF would take that responsibility.
         Q
                Who ordered the IRTF to be stood up 10 ultimately?
11
                The Secretary of Defense signed a 12 memorandum that gave, established the task force, 13 required support by multiple DoD agencies and 14 organizations and gave us a series of tasks that he 15 expected us to accomplish.
                Sir, when was the IRTF stood up?
16
17
                Within just a day or two of the release of 18
    the Afghan files.
19
         Q
                So in reference to the summer of 2010, 20 which months, June, July or August?
21
                I believe it was still in July.
                                                  It was

- Q Could you please describe for the Court the tasking that was basically ordered by Sec. Def. for the task force that you oversaw?
- 5 MR. HURLEY: Objection, ma'am, relevance.
- THE COURT: Understood. I told the defense to go ahead and articulate when they would be objecting, but that's going to be in the written filing. So proceed.

- Sir, could you please describe the tasking that you received for the IRTF, what its function and purpose is for?
 - A So there was a number of tasks and I don't know if I'll capture all of them right now. I think it was like six or eight. If I'm not mistaken.
- The first task was to understand any sources or methods or intel activities that might be at risk as a result of this release.
- 20 There was another task in there that talked 21 about protecting the population on the battlefield.

People that had their names in these reports that might

2	be viewed as collaborators with the US forces.
3	I was to look for any insensitivities to a
4	particularly religion or a particular culture and try
5	to identify those as quick as we could.

I was to look for any issues that might be put forth that would cause fracture between various nations or various parts of the coalition.

I was to provide recommendations for mitigation strategies and I was to provide the department advance warning on any additional releases that might have been subsequent to the Afghan files.
